*This book is dedicated to the women and men of South Carolina
who lost their lives
due to domestic violence in 2016.

*The stories in this book were compiled using incident reports from local law enforcement and data from the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division. All defendants are presumed innocent unless and until they are proven guilty in a court of law.

Our Lives After

Have been slow-going, have been wind-swept. Not downpour, exactly.
More like, drizzle. We have learned a new word for silence.

One that doesn't mean still or hush, more like echo. I love the feeling of being tired, just complete exhaustion, where there's no room

To think of our lives after, but only the whole of the world as it unfolds.
Blue violet by violet, slow cast of shadow, a yawn of stars.

Your name does not grow quiet with time, but calls us out to meet each other and the early afternoon on foot. Come here, I want to tell you,

W.rB

Domestic violence affects us all.

Domestic violence cuts across gender, race and ethnicity. People in every socioeconomic status experience this type of violence. Domestic violence victims are all around us: in our neighborhoods, workplaces and our places of worship.

Therefore, let us have a moment of silence to remember those victims of whom we are unaware.
